Featuring Key Note Speaker

Dr. Marian Higgins

Career services professionals are on the front line and must be equipped to appreciate the diversity of clients while also understanding and addressing the challenges they face relating to inclusion and equity in the workplace.

Dr. Higgins will reveal skills and strategies to:

- Support clients in identifying and pursuing their career goals and aspirations
- Recognize ways to modify the delivery of career services to reflect inclusivity of all clients
- Advocate for clients in search of equitable workspaces

Dr. Higgins has over 14 years of experience as a Career Development Professional in community and university settings. Through her supervision and development of career consultants at the University of Georgia Career Center, Dr. Higgins developed her passion for providing professional development for career development professionals. Her coordination of the office's diversity and inclusion efforts led to her being recognized as a leader in the career services field.
